LESSON FOR MAY 31 THE GRATEFUL SAMARITAN.

LESSON TEXT-Luke 17:11-19. GOLDEN TEXT-"Were there none found that returned to give glory to God save this stranger?" Luke 17:18.

Jesus and his party are on their last journey to Jerusalem, a most eventful journey. It led him between Samaria and Galilee (v. 11, marg.) and into, or through, an unknown, unnamed vlilage. To us this is the most heroic and momentous moment in history. Jesus knew that his hour was at hand. He knew all that awalted hlm In Jerusalem, yet he "set his face as a flint" and nothing could turn him from his purpose, his crowning work Jesus, however, was never too busy or in too great haste to do a deed of compassionate mercy.

The Type of Sln. I. A Great Need, vv. 11-14.—We are familiar with the awfulness of leprosy and that it is a type of sin. Like sin, leprosy begins within, is insidlous in its progress; it defies, shuts men out The contest was observed by a soldler. of the society of the clean. It renders He dropped his gun to the ground and indictment of five well-known rope and America, yet his observations its victims helpless and hopeless, has no remedy and receives no help from men; in consumes and finally kills. This was a terrible spectacle that greeted Jesus' eyes as he entered the village, for these lepers were compelled to live on the outside. Notice (v. 12) that they stood "afar off" (Eph. 2:13), indeed, so far off that they were compelled to "llft their volces" in order to make known their request, although it may have been that the disease had reached their vocal organs. The Mosaic law compelled the leper thus to stand afar off, Lev. 13:45, 46. Their salutation was the cry of the needy made to one ln authority. The word "Master" here used is not that which usually means teacher, but rather one that would be applied to one in authority, an appointee or a commander. They must have either recognized his power or, having heard of his miracles they appealed to him to exercise a like power on their behalf. There was no other who could possibly give them relief, even so the sinners' only hope is to meet Jesus. He, and he alone, can cleanse them from their uncleanness passed that way again, this was their only opportunity. Their need drove them to him. Ofttlmes our distress that they drive us to Jesus. Though afar off, and though only one drew nigh (v. 16), yet it was the privilege of them all, as it is also our privilege to 'draw nigh," Eph. 2:13. Their cry did not fall upon deaf ears (Isa. 59:1). It was a brief, but to the point, petition. They knew what they needed and drove straight to the point. Their appeal to his mercy met with immediate response, so also will the cry of the needy sinner meet with a like response (Rom. 10:13). The record does not tell us about the faith of these men and it is useless for us to speculate. The cry of falth will have its answer, Matt. 9:29. Their prayer was brief, It must have been humble, helieving, earnest and specific, for when "he saw them" (v. 14) he gave direcmight he cleansed. He could have spoken or have touched them, but his way at that time was to utter a command. This resulted in (a) a fulfilling of the law, (b) a test for their faith, (c) a testimony to the priests. They showed their genuine earnestness by immediate obedience, they wonderfully suggestive, "as they went they were cleansed." Faith and works, obedience and results. When we act upon his simple yet sublime word we. too, will receive a blessed answer to our every need. As we look to hlm,

Found Dead

Friday afternoon the body of an unknown man was found floating in a pond on a farm of Col. H. B. Hanger near this city. Squire Wm. Adams was notified and held an inquest over the remains. The body was brought to town and was without identification for some time. A letter found in the man's pocket which was addressed to Merril Friend, of Winston, Ky., led some to believe that the body was that of Friend, but many people who knew Friend intimately and who viewed the remains did not so identify him. Later on information was received from Winston that Friend was alive and a description of an uncle of Mr. Friend, C. Brandenburg, was telephoned to the authorities here and the description given tallied with the clothing, probable age, and other physical appearance of the dead man.

The body proved to be that of of Mr. J. C. Brandenburg, of near Connersville, Ind. No marks of violence were found on the body. The identification was so complete that no doubt is felt as to the identity of the person.

GREATEST OF ALL MEMORIAL DAYS WAS THE REUNION AT GETTYSBURG

THREE SCENES AT GETTYSBURG DURING THE FIFTY-YEAR-AFTER CELEBRATION.

EVER again will the world see so splendid a reunion of veterans of the civil war as that which assembled at . Gettysburg July 2, 3 and 4, 1913, the fiftieth anniversary of the greatest battle of the war. Fifty thousand veterans of both sides gathered to participate in the formal and informal celebrations and to fraternize not only with their brethren of their own side, but with the survivors of the other cause. It was the glorious climax of the "one land, one flag" movement which has united north and south since the unhappy days of the war.

Nour regiment in Virginia in 1863 was a soldier in the ranks who of his own company seemed to know exactly when or where he enlisted, where was his home or anything else about him except that he sald he was a Marylander. Maryland was a border state, the inhabitants being part northern and part southern in their sympathies.

There was nothing unusual about Davis' fighting on the Union side, for in the border states whole Federal regiments were made up of their citizens. But it was singular to hear him abusing Coufederates with the accent of a southern man.

Davis in other respects was a good natured fellow, perfectly fearless and seemed to have no selfishness in his nature-indeed, was a type of the reai southern gentleman. We wondered why he had not been able to obtain a commission, but he reminded us that the flower of the Maryland population was on the southern side. Maryland was not a good state for northerners.

We were cavalry, and Davis was one of the best of us so far as horsemanship was concerned. He was constantly being punished for roaming about wherever he liked. He rode aii over our camps and, whenever he took a fancy to do so, sallied forth slngle handed against the Confederate pickets. That he was a good fighter was evident whenever there was trouble on the picket lines. On such occasions he would ride right up under the enemy's rifles. He aiways came back unhurt, aud we could never understand how he managed to escape.

One night while out on vedette duty Davis disappeared. Shooting was heard in the direction of the point where he was stationed, and it was believed that at last he had reaped the payment of his recklessness. A party was sent out next morning to look for his body, but it was not found. Six months passed, during which everything was changed with us. Armies are like packs of cards-they are constantiy being shuffled. One day while on picket duty I saw a man running watching for an opportunity to desert. from the Confederate lines toward ours, while men on that side were fir- ed Mr. Davis up to headquarters, ing at him. "There comes a deserter," where the general commanding inter-I remarked. The man stumbled two viewed him. The general, not being or three times, fell, got up and came satisfied with this passing from one on, reaching us in safety. I was at side to another and weighing against 's another another and weighing against 's another an

he came right up to me.

What was my astonishment to see Davis' astonishment at seeing me was equally great. Besides astonishment, I noticed chagriu. Hls face fell momentarily; then, grasping my hand, he shook it heartily, exclaiming: "How are you, Charlie? What luck was a thoroughbred. No one even to come in right among my own boys!" I withdrew my hand, saving to him. "I don't shake with deserters."

'Deserter! I reckou I am a deserter. I had to be or fight with those cursed southerners." "I mean deserter from our side."

Davis looked hurt. He told a story of having ridden on the night of his disappearance right in behind a Confederate camp. The opening was closed behind him. There was nothing for him to do but surrender. Being a southerner, as was proved by his accent, he had told his captors, he said, that he had been forced into the northern service and had long been Notwithstanding this story, I march-the time a sergeant in command of him the fact that he was a souththe picket post into which he ran, and erner, ordered that he he held under arrest and charges of desertion be made against hlm. Davis laughed at the Idea of charges against a man who hated Confederates as he hated poison, and if he felt the least doubt ahout his being able to clear himself none of us could detect it.

But the evidence came in heavy against him. He was recognized as having belonged to an entirely different corps from ours and as having played the same game before, doubtless serving as a Federal soldier and carrying information to Confederate generals. Before the court finished the case it came out that Davis belonged to an old Maryland family, that he held a commission as lieutenant colonel in the Confederate army and was hlgh iu favor with several Confederate generals, whom he had furnished with enough information to enable any army to defeat twice its numbers. Dayls was sentenced to be hanged. His family might have saved his life had he been convicted of desertion. Indeed, they were handicapped, knowlng that he was a spy-in fact, an officer of high rank in the Confederate army. The best they could do for him was to obtain a change in the mode of his death. The seutence was made shooting lustead of hanging. Davis maintained the same coolness of outward appearance to the moment of his death. Before he was a spy of the enemy; now he was one of nature's Unlike two of his predecessors in office, Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft, Woodrow Wilson has not been able to get all the exercise that he needs to keep himself in perfect physical trim. Physicians say continuous fresh air will make up to some extent for the lack of bodlly exercise. It must not be understood he is not; he simply is somewhat tired and has determined to do that which will overcome the thred feeling as much as possible. Mr. Wllson is no more tired, perhaps, than are other workers in Washington, but it must be remembered that he has about twice as much to do and a great many times as much anxiety as fall to the lot of other officials in the capital city.

When Mr. Taft came into office there were many alterations made in the east wing of the White House, where the cabinet room, the president's private office and the offices of the clerical force are located. The president's office is a circular room in communicates by a passageway with which is at the southwest corner of the bullding. The outlook from the president's room and from the cabinet room as well and from one end of Secretary Tumulty's room is over the great south grounds of the White House and on to the monument and beyond that to the Potomac river. BY GEORGE CLINTON:

Washington.-Prohibition and woman suffrage are today squarely before the house of representatives as quesattempting to secure record votes on robustness, but, in all cases, women the questions in house and senate and for years they have failed. Now it seems likely that the prohibition amendment will be voted on in the house before the adjournment of the present session. Suffrage possibly may have to wait.

The two subjects are before the house in the form of proposed amendments to the constitution of the United States. They both have been In the keeping of the judiciary committee for some time, and If things were as they used to be in congress it is probable the committee never would have reported them to the house. The members of the committee, however, were moved by the constant charges made by the friends of both suffrage and prohibition that they did not dare report the amendments and that they were holding them back also because the representatives did not care to be put on record for or against either amendment. For a long time suffragists and advocates of prohibition have been urging members of the house to see to It that both amendments were brought to a vote. The answers which the prohibitionIsts and the suffragists received were allke in virtually every instance. The proponents of the amendments were told that the judlciary committee had not acted and that nothing could be done unless that body made a report.

Put Up to the House.

So it was that the members of the judiclary committee were made the targets and they resented what they said was the throwing on their shoulders by the other representatives of the blame for inaction. The committee resolved to let the house fight the at the sight of blood and wounds; their matter out for Itself, and it has re- native antipathy to disorder, confusion ers which on land graced the identiported both amendments, although no and violence subdued the rebellious "A solemn hush and awe fell as the proposals.

On the-proposed suffrage amendment to the constitution the position of the representatives is much like that in which they find themselves on the question of prohibition. Women vote in a good many states alinfluence in whatever state she lives. Representatives do not like the idea of having the suffrage influence against them and they do not like the idea of having the antl-suffrage influence against them. The prohibition amendment to the constitution which has been proposed and upon which the house probably must vote declares that scientific research "has demonstrated that alcohol is a narcotic polson, destructive and degenerating to the human organism and that its distribution as a beverage or contained in food lays a staggering economic burden upon the shoulders of the people, lowers to an appalling degree the average standard of character of our citizenship, thereby undermining the public morals and

To congress is reserved the right to provide for the manufacture, sale, importation and transportation of intoxicating liquors for sacramental, medicinal, mechanical, pharmaceutical and scientific purposes and for the use in the arts.

The suffrage amendment provides as does the other that the question of a suffrage amendment to the Constitution be submitted to the legisle tures of the states.

The people of this portion of the district are eager to see some good man in the race for Congress other than Mr. Cantrill. Judge Benton, of Winchester, has been mentioned as a probable candidate, and we would be glad to see him in the ring, but the Judge has decided not to enter. and will stand for the nomination for another term of Circuit Judge.—Clay City Times.

South Africa Kentuckians

J. O. Turner, Secretary of the Alumni Association of State University, has received word from South Africa that a club of K. U. graduates has been formed and that the first gift to their college will be a scholarship of $100.

This is but one indication of the brotherhood and love for the Alma Mater which binds together students of all colleges.

CHAPTER I—John Valiant, a rich so-viety favorite, suddenly discovers that the Vallant corporation, which his father founded and which was the principal source of his wealth, has failed.

CHAPTER II—He voluntarily turns over his private fortune to the receiver for the corporation.

CHAPTER III—His entire remaining possessions consist of an old motor car, a white bull dog and Damory court, a neglected estate in Virginia.

CHAPTER IV—He learns that this estate came into the family by royal grant and has been in the possession of the Valiants ever since.

CHAPTER V—On the way to Damory bourt he meets Shirley Dandridge, an anburn-haired beauty, and decides that he is going to like Virginia immensely.

Shirley hers, A earth!"

CHAPTER VI—An old negro tells Shir-ley's fortune and predicts great trouble for her on account of a man. CHAPTER VII—Uncle Jefferson, an old aegro, takes Valiant to Damory court.

CHAPTER VIII—Shirley's mother, Mrs. Dandridge, and Major Bristow exchange reminiscences during which it is revealed that the major, Valiant's father, and a man named Sassoon, were rivals for the hand of Mrs. Dandridge in her youth. Sassoon and Valiant fought a duel on her account in which the former was killed.

CHAPTER IX-Valiant finds Damory court overgrown with weeds and creepers and the buildings in a very much neglected condition. Uncle Jefferson and his wife, Aunt Daphne, are engaged as CHAPTER X-Valiant explores his an-cestral home. He is surprised by a fox hunting party which invades his estate. He recognizes Shirley at the head of the CHAPTER XI—He gives sanctuary to the cornered fox. Gossips discuss the ad-vent of the new owner and recall the tragedy in which the elder Valiant took CHAPTER XII—Vallant decides to re-habilitate Damory court and make the land produce a living for him.

CHAPTER XIII—He meets Shirley, who has been gathering flowers on the Valiant estate, and reveals his identity to her.

CHAPTER XIV-Valiant saves Shirley from the bite of a snake, which bites him. Knowing the deadliness of the bite, Shirley sucks the poison from the wound and saves his life.

CHAPTER XV—Shirley tells her mother of the incident and the latter is strangely moved at hearing that a Valiant is again living at Damory court.

CHAPTER XVI—Valiant learns some of the history of his family from Doctor Southail and Major Bristow. CHAPTER XVII—He learns for the first time that his father left Virginia on account of a duel in which Doctor Southail and Major Bristow acted as his father's seconds.

CHAPTER XVIII-Valiant and Shirley become good friends. Mrs. Dandridge faints when she first meets Valiant.

CHAPTER XX-With the advice and assistance of the major and Shiriey, Valiant restores the gardens to what they were in his father's time.

CHAPTER XXII—At the last moment Valiant takes the place of one of the knights, who is sick, and enters the lists.

CHAPTER XXIV-The tournament ball at Damory court draws the elite of the countryside. Shirley is crowned by Valiant as queen of beauty.

His coronation address held no such flowery periods as would have rolled. from the major's soul. Face To Face Courtesy NOOD telephone service depends largely upon mutual T courtesy. The telephone is more useful to those who talk as if face to face, for civility removes difficulties and facilitates the promptest possible connections.

As in other intercourse, it often happens that two or more people wish to talk with the same person at the same time. Without courtesy confusion is inevitable, and the confusion is greater when the people can not see each other.

The operators must be patient and polite under all circumstances, but they will do better work if they meet patience and politeness on the part of telephone users.

The Bell Telephone service enters intimately into the social and business life of each individual. The best results come through the practice of mutual courtesy.
